INTRODUCTION

THE purpose of this checklist is primarily to assist librarians in completing and cataloging the sets of periodicals indexed in the various standard periodical indexes published in this country. So far as possible, a consistent plan has been followed, bringing together under the latest title the various publications issued under different names but which are actually the same periodical. Those who have had experience in cataloging magazines will realize the difficulty of determining the historical continuity when two periodicals have been consolidated into one. It is hoped that the checklist may help librarians to complete and arrange the sets of indexed periodicals especially adapted to reference work.

The information which is given in this checklist has not always been secured from direct reference to the periodicals themselves, but often from the various sources noted in the list of "Reference Works Consulted." Naturally it is to be expected that there are errors and inconsistencies in the entries which will be discovered by those who deal minutely with the periodicals in question. Any information, criticism, or suggestion will be cordially welcomed.

In regard to some periodicals it seemed impossible to secure the requisite information for determining their identity or their history; in such cases entries were made with what information could be secured.

The entries for the periodicals covered by the Agricultural Index are not entirely complete, as the listing of these serials was not part of the original plan of the checklist. A second edition, which will be issued if there is sufficient demand, will remedy these and other omissions.

Information in regard to the history of any of the periodicals will be gladly received.

Acknowledgment for assistance rendered is gratefully given to Miss Anna L. Guthrie for the preparation of the list of indexed periodicals, used as a basis for this checklist; to the Card Distribution Division of the Library of Congress for the correction and verification of the Library of Congress card numbers; to Mr. F. W. Faxon for the use of his check-list; to those in charge of the cataloging and order departments of the New York Public Library and the Columbia University Library for their courtesy.

USES OF THE CHECKLIST

Some of the special ways in which this checklist may be of service to the librarian are the following:

In the order department. The checklist will aid in checking the magazine volumes as they are prepared for binding, since it supplies information on frequency of issue, number of volumes per year, date of commencing of each current volume, and particulars in regard to the securing of title pages and indexes. It will assist in the selection of sets of periodicals, by showing just which volumes have been included in the periodical indexes to be found in the library; on account of its notes in regard to changes of title and irregularities it will facilitate the purchase of back numbers.

In the cataloging department. The checklist gives detailed information that is quite desirable for the card catalog, since it presents in convenient form in one publication information otherwise found only in numerous catalogs, union lists, etc., or in the periodicals themselves. The Library of Congress catalog card number is often of assistance.

In the periodical department. The checklist will facilitate the arrangement of serials as they have been cataloged, since it gives changes of title and irregularities, and is accompanied by numerous cross references. It will serve as a guide to the location of sets, through its cross references. If the library classification numbers are placed opposite the entries, the value will be increased, especially in libraries where the periodicals are kept in numerous distinct divisions. In the use of magazines it is often desirable to have at hand a list of those included in the standard indexes, showing the volumes indexed; and it is well to mark the list to indicate the volumes which are to be found in the library.

FORM OF ENTRY

1. Periodicals are entered under the latest form of title, with cross references from earlier titles.

2. Names of societies are entered under the first significant word of the latest name of the society, cross references being made from earlier names.

3. Society publications, whether they have a distinctive name or not, are entered under the name of the society (with a few exceptions), cross references being made from distinctive titles.

4. The inclusive volumes or dates stated as indexed are taken from the lists of indexed periodicals as given in the various cumulated volumes of the indexes, and have not been verified by examination of the indexes themselves.

5. The information contained in an entry is, for most periodicals: latest title, place of publication, inclusive volume numbers, inclusive dates, frequency of publication, number of volumes per year, regular month for beginning of each volume, the issuing of title page and index (for current periodicals only), inclusive volumes indexed in the standard periodical indexes (in the order of earliest volume indexed), Library of Congress catalog card number for the periodical, note in smaller type giving details in regard to changes of title and various combinations and irregularities.

The entry in one group with numerous abbreviations may seem clearer from the following example. M.2v.an.Ja.&Jl.tpi-l means—issued monthly, having two volumes each year, one commencing in January and the other in July, title page and index being sent by the publishers as a separate in the last issue of each volume.

The Library of Congress card number is given only for the latest form of the title.
